Opening Journal

What is something that nobody in this room knows about you?

Why don’t they know about it?

How do you decide what parts of yourself to share with who?

Create your question!

- On your index card or scrap paper, write a question to use during our wagon wheel.
- Examples:
  - “Would you rather…”
  - [This] or [That]
  - “When was a time…”
  - “What is _____ that you love? Why?”

DO NOT SHARE your question once you write it down!

Wagon Wheel

Everyone has one question

As a group, create an inner and outer circle that faces each other

Greet the person in front of you

You and your partner have 2 minutes to ask / answer the questions

When time is called, swap questions and the outer circles rotate clockwise one person

Reflection

Have everyone move into one big circle

- How did it feel to get to design your own questions and trade the questions you created?
- What is something new that you learned about a classmate?
- What from this experience can you take with you into your own life?

Closing Journal Reflection

What is something that you shared with this group that you were surprised you shared?

What helped you feel comfortable to share that information?
